Class Song.

“We Will Find a Way or Make One.”

Words by Harriet M. Kinner.

Music by Fred I. Graham.

How bright and glad are the days that are gone,
How pleasant to think of our school work done,
We've struggled together, been loyal and true,
And now from the old life we pass to the new.
New pleasures, new trials await Ninety-five,
But we will together still nobly strive.

CHORUS.—For altho' young, our courage strong,
The reaping time will come ere long.
On fertile fields we'll sow the grain,
Maturing well in sun and rain.

We may never climb the heights of fame,
Ours never may be a glorious name,
But being taught by Wisdom rare,
We'll guide those trusted to our care.
This is the work of life we'll do
With purpose steady, honest, true.

There are many paths in our future bright,
That seem to us an enchanting sight.
So we'll go forth and choose the way,
That leads to an all conquering day,
When Ninety-five once more shall stand,
A cheering, glad, triumphant band.
